

Freddie Mac Announces Updates to MBS Data Correction Files

March 17, 2026

Effective May 18, 2026, Freddie Mac, in conjunction with Fannie Mae, will begin publishing a new Single-Family MBS Loan-Level issuance correction file that will provide complete loan-level data for any security that receives data corrections within the 90-day offering period. The file, named FRE_RILLD_YYYYMM, will accompany the already existing Security Core and Security Supplemental Correction Files posted following the month of issuance to the Freddie Mac UI and SFTP at 6:30 AM ET if corrections were applied. The file format will be identical to the existing MBS loan-level issuance files.

Additionally, beginning with the monthly files published on June 4, 2026, Freddie Mac will default both the Loan Correction Indicator (L-002) and the Security Data Correction Indicator (S-07) to “N” (No) in the monthly ongoing disclosure files. As a best practice, data consumers are encouraged to consume the full files regardless of the indicator values.
